The proportion of women elected for Municipalities and parish councils executive organs has been gradually increasing.

The participation of women in local power is still lower than that of men, particularly in executive organs.

The participation of women in local power is significantly low in the municipalities and in parish councils.